

Wildlife Tracking Through the Seasons

The Wildlife Tracking Through the Seasons Series is intended for people who would like to become more familiar with the tracks, sign and lives of the local wild animals who share our world.

Classes are held one Sunday per month from September to June. In each four to five hour session we will learn about the tracks, trail patterns, and sign, as well as habitat preferences, food sources and behavior of our focus animal of the month. After a one hour segment, either indoors or online, we will head out to explore the forests, ponds, fields and riverbanks of local areas on the Massachusetts North Shore, with occasional trips to other New England destinations.

By learning from the tracks and sign of animals, we will discover what locations, plants and habitat features are important to different species in different seasons. We also see firsthand how wild animals interact with their habitat and with each other. The animals will become our guides and teachers.

Participants are welcome to sign up for just one session or multiple sessions throughout the year, and can view and share tracking images and observations on the Wildlife Tracking Through the Seasons Facebook Page.

Class attendees may also participate in the Wildlife Tracking Certificate Program which acknowledges each person's progress toward becoming a better tracker and naturalist.
